THE SAGA OF RICHARD NASON AND FAMILY

Richard Nason was born in Stratford-on-Avon in 1606. Thirty three years later, in 1639, he was living on 200 acres at Pipestone Landing on the Salmon Falls River in Kittery. (He originally settled in Dover, but was always on the move until he settled in Kittery.)

In 1645, he had a falling out with his brother-in-law, John Baker. Both had indulged freely in hot buttered rum and Baker was hauled into court for beating Richard until he was black and blue.

Richard served his town as juryman in 1649, and as ensign in 1653, which meant his duty was to lead the townsmen in case of Indian attacks.

In 1652, the Puritans of Massachusetts were hungering for the rich timberland of Maine. They sent an agent to persuade the Mainers' to submit to the Massachusetts rule. Nason had no use for the Puritans and spoke disrespectfully of them. Consequently, he was taken into General Court in 1655 for failure to attend meetings. This didn't stick, so he was again called into court for entertaining Quakers. He was fined 5 pounds and was disinfranchised.

In 1662, Maine elected a deputy to the General Assembly to try to break away from Massachusetts and make Maine a Province. The deputies voted to uphold their submission - all but one - Richard Nason. They called him into court again for harboring Quakers, accused him of being one, and dismissed him from office.

In 1665, he was again called into court for blasphemy, but sentiment was so strong, that the judge didn't take action as often blasphemy was a capital offense. Richard was rebuked harshly and put under bond for 40 pounds for good behavior. One year later, the people of Kittery elected him to the General Court, the same Court that had rebuked him!

He was a scalawag, if there ever was one. He drank, swore, and fought but he served his town well. He had 8 children, the oldest being Richard, Jr. who also had 8 children.

In 1675, Richard, Jr. and Richard III were at home when a knock came at the door. Richard Jr. answered it followed by Richard III, a lad of about 8 years. A painted Indian stood there with a musket pointed at Richard, Jr. who fell dead with the shot. The Indian dragged Richard III over the body of his father and fled to Canada where he sold the boy to a Frenchman. Richard III never came back home; he married his owner's daughter and remained in Canada for the rest of his long life.

Old Richard made his home into a garrison and at his death, his son Ben inherited it. Benjamin also had 8 children. His daughter Sarah went to the spring for water one day and an Indian caught her and took her to St. Francis where she was held captive until 1699 when she was ransomed and brought back by Thomas Hutchins.

In 1745, Benjamin, Jr's. sons, Joshua, Noah, and Benjamin III went to war against the French. Joshua married his Captain's daughter, Sarah Butler, and they also had 8 children. He was 50 when the Revolution broke out but he volunteered and commanded a Company in Colonel Storer's regiment and fought at Saratoga.

Joshua's son Edward was assigned to Captain Goodwin's Company which followed Benedict Arnold to Quebec; he also served at Ticonderoga. Edward married Sarah Merrill whose father, a sea captain, was in Colonel Brewer's Regiment in the Massachusetts Continentials.

Edward settled in Arundel and one of his sons, Daniel, at 10 years of age, became a cabin boy on one of the frigates out of Arundel. He was a sea captain by 19 and married Lydia Towne at 21. Daniel was captured by the British on November 1, 1814 and taken to Dartmouth Prison where he stayed until July 15, 1815.

His entry into Dartmouth Prison read as follows: "Daniel Nason, Sailing Master of the Privateer MacDonough, received at Dartmouth December 17, 1814, Age 34, Height 6 Feet 1/2 inch, stout, oval face, black hair, grey eyes, no marks or wounds. Supplied with 1 hammock, 1 bed, 1 blanket." With Daniel were 26 other Arundel men and the ships cabin boy, 12 years old.

DANIEL NASON

The village of North Sebago is of fairly recent origin having been settled in 1838 by George Ward of Scarboro. For many years afterward it was known as "Sandy Beach", a name no doubt derived from its excellent stretch of white sand, now called Nason's Beach. With the establishment of a post office in the 1870's, it became recognized as a distinct unit of Sebago Township.

Among the early arrivals are listed Ephriam Bachelder, George W. Burnell, Daniel Nason, the Shaw and McKenney families.

One of the earliest and most energetic of North Sebago's first settlers was Daniel Nason, who built the first log cabin in the settlement, on the brook named after him. The center portion of the present Nason homestead is stated to be the oldest building now in North Sebago.

DID YOU KNOW THAT?

When William O. Nason was born, he weighed about 2 pounds. Reportedly, he was carried around on a pillow and fed cream!

When Charley was about 14 years old, he got caught out on Sebago Lake during a blizzard. Fires were built on the shore and guns were shot off to help him find his way home; but apparently, he never saw or heard anything.

The next morning, he was found in a snow house that he had built for himself in order to survive the storm and night.

He was brought home and packed in snow to help thaw him out. This ordeal seemed to have stunted his growth as, it is said, that he never grew again.

His feet were particularly tender and none of the other boys could sleep with him because if they touched his feet during their sleep, Charley would be in a great deal of pain.

There are many "tales to tell" within the Nason family. If you have a tale to tell, please write it down and send it to us.

Surnames:

Lindsay,

Your Nason ancestry is thus:

Richard[1] Nason, came to Kittery, Maine, from England before 1639; he had two wives, Sarah [Baker?] and Abigail (_____) Follett;
Jonathan[2] Nason, married Sarah Jenkins;
Jonathan[3] Nason, m. Adah Morrell;
John[4] Nason, m. Margaret Lord;
Uriah[5] Nason, baptized in 1744; m. in 1765, Abigail Knight. They lived at Gorham.
William[6] Nason, b. at Gorham, m. Betsey Burnell, and moved to Sebago. 1721
Daniel[7] Nason, b. in 1799; m. Jane Cannell; lived at Sebago.
Thomas[8] Nason, b. in 1836; m. ?
William O.[9] Nason, b. about 1870; married Abbie _____;
William Henry[10] Nason, b. in 1907; m. Marion Dolloff;
your father[11];
you[12].

The Lot Nason in the cemetery was a son of Daniel[7] and Jane Nason; Lot had no children.

If you are interested in the Nason history, you can find two books viewable for free at google.com/books - search for Old Kittery and Her Families, by Everett Stackpole, and History of Gorham, Me., by Hugh D. McLellan.
